A HOLOCAUST STUDY TOUR FOR TEACHERS:
THE ECONOMICS & SCIENCE OF HATE

Sponsored by the H.K. Barker Center for Economic Education

Departing June 18, 2019

- Berlin, Germany (Unter den Linden, Reichstag, Brandenburg Gate, Kurfürstendamm, Remains of the Berlin Wall, Haus der Wannsee-Konferenz Memorial, Tour of Old Jewish Quarter)
- Warsaw & Krakow, Poland (Warsaw Ghetto Monument, POLIN Museum of the History of Polish Jews, Wawel Hill, Glowny Square, Auschwitz, Birkenau, Charles Bridge)
- Prague, Czech Republic (Jewish Quarter, Jewish Museum, and the Spanish Synagogue)

10 days for approximately $2,000, not including airfare and tuition. Costs include in-country transportation, lodging with private bathrooms, most breakfasts and dinners, tour and entrance fees to attractions, on-site faculty supervision, and all tips and gratuities. Prices may vary.

$500 scholarships available to qualified teachers and education majors!

This course employs expeditionary learning techniques to help educators teach about the difficult and complex topics of the Holocaust and genocide. Participants will gain access to vetted standards-based content and pedagogical resources geared for grades 7-12 classroom use. The course frames the study of the Holocaust using principles and foundations in economic and science education.

In economic education, educators draw from witness testimonies to learn how political philosophies shape economic policies, priorities, and human rights. This includes differentiating between monetary and non-monetary incentives in influencing individual and government choices.

In science education, educators learn about the inappropriate use of biological determinism to assign, measure, and rank human groups’ worth and value from inherited, inborn distinctions like race, class, and sex.

Open to Education & Non-Education Majors
For more information, contact:
Dr. Brad Maguth (Economic/Social Studies Education)
bmaguth@uakron.edu
Dr. Gary Holliday (Science Education)
gh30@uakron.edu