

C | S

The University of Akron's Corrosion Squad invites you to the first-ever

YOUTH IN CORROSION ENGINEERING CONFERENCE

A hands-on experience for high school students

Saturday, Oct. 5, 2019
9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Jean Hower Taber Student Union
Gardner Theatre Lobby

How do you prevent or control corrosion?

Come learn the answers to these questions at the place that offers the first and only bachelor's degree in corrosion engineering in the U.S.!

The day includes talks from corrosion engineering professionals, lunch with current students, and interactive campus tours.

Register at uakron.edu/youth-in-corrosion
$5 per person (Lunch provided)

For More Information Contact:
Rogelio De Las Casas Aranda
815-216-8999
rd79@zips.uakron.edu

SPONSORED BY:

The University of Akron
College of Engineering

The University of Akron
National Center for Education and Research on Corrosion and Material Performance

What is corrosion and why does it occur?

Why do certain materials corrode faster than others?

The University of Akron
College of Engineering