

School of Allied Health Technology Professor Publishes National Article

William C. Fiala, professor of practice in the School of Allied Health Technology, authored an article that has been published in the September 2019 issue of the Journal of AHIMA (American Health Information Management Association). The article provides insight into healthcare providers' reporting of social determinants of health. Social determinants of health "are among the most influential factors to determine health outcomes of individuals" according to the National Quality Forum. On September 18, he will present the article to a meeting of the Northeast Ohio Medical Group Management Association, the 100+ member regional affiliate chapter of the Medical Group Management Association - American College of Medical Practice Executives.
