What were your top two successes?

1. Generating Student Communication Technology recommendations that take into account student data as well as conversation and collaboration with University Communication and Marketing that can be immediately addressed to improve student communication.

2. Discovering in the research that improving the culture of student centeredness on campus is an immediate need for our students, and drafting a number of exciting ideas and a long-term committee plan to develop them. We recognize that shifting culture isn’t a single recommendation or resolution, but a series of shifts over several years. We are currently working on an initial resolution that may be presented this Spring semester, or early in the Fall semester.

What were your top two challenges?

1. Our greatest challenge has been open seats and lack of continuity on our committee. Over the course of the year we lost several student and staff representatives. We currently have four open seats on our official roster including two SEAC seats, one Faculty Senate seat and one Graduate Student Government Seat. In addition, we have an Undergraduate Student Government seat that is listed as filled, but that student has informed us that she is no longer serving. With five open seats, and a great deal of member transition, it’s difficult to function well as a committee.

2. A less severe challenge has been finding meeting times that could accommodate everyone’s schedule. We had one meeting in December where we did not have quorum to meet. We have used Doodle polls to remedy this issue.

Please list the dates of your meetings:

9/7, 10/5, 11/2, 1/4, 2/2, 3/9, 3/23, 4/13, 5/11
